

Gulf Carriers Halt Flights to Qatar Amid Geopolitical Dispute

June 5, 2017 AirlineGeeks.com Staff Airlines, Airports

Qatar Airways will soon face challenges as it can no longer serve multiple countries in the Gulf region (Photo: Qatar Airways)

On Monday, multiple Gulf carriers announced they are suspending services to Qatar amidst a growing dispute between Qatar's government and several Arab countries on terrorism concerns in the region.

The carriers, which include Etihad, Emirates, Fly Dubai, Gulf Air and Saudia began cutting services, offering affected passengers a variety of options, including the option to rebook to alternative destinations or be issued a full refund.

TBT (Throwback Thursday) in Aviation History: Air Moorea

United Celebrates 70 Years of Service to Hawaii by Increasing Routes

The Death and Rebirth of Memphis (MEM) and Cincinnati (CVG)

Branching Out: The Growth of Chinese Airlines

Counter-Opinion: Why I'm Against ATC Privatization

Analysis: Potential Options for Struggling Alitalia

American Reverses Course on 737 MAX 8 Seat Pitch Dilemma

Opinion: Why I'm For ATC Privatization

Airbus Predicts Significant Aircraft Growth by 2036

Photos: Delta's First Airbus A350-900XWB Rolls Out of the Toulouse Paint Shop

